Higgler Hike - led by the Higgler, a Shepley tailor in the 19th century selling suits on credit.

Shepley, or Scipelei, As in the Doomsday Book, Is quite the handsome town, If you choose to take a look.

PROPERTY OF THE PROPERTY OF THE PARTY OF THE

This high up place that stands windswept, Translates 'a clearing where sheep '

To guide you round each hill and dyke, I'm a shrewd tailor man named Higgler Hike.

Us Higglers we are business men, We'll make you a suit for the price of ten, We travel along the Penistone track, With fine cloth samples strapped to our back.

And we have in our employment, 10 hard working women, Who sew and stitch and cut and trim,

To work the sheets of linen.

A giant stone was hurried down, And placed with care just by the road, On a high piece of ground, So that then the royal pair, Would see the stone so big and round.

Take the road up the hill to the fancy gate

through the gate. The houses on the right

(Millennium Gate) on the corner and go

are Hall Syke with privies at the back.

Follow the path, immediately over the stone stile take a left. Go through the stone squeeze and up the walkway

and over the stone steps and follow

the path up the field.

Not long ago, all houses,

Had their toilets in the garden,

But in favour for an inside loo,

Some of the houses that you see,

They have an outdoor privy still.

across the field to the stone stile.

Long

Close

Continue down the road, but take the unmade

road to the right just above the Farmer's Boy

pub, and follow the path to the bottom.

Have you heard of the Shepley Races?

The Co-op gave them all three shillings.

Locals chased to get their divi,

There are recorded a number of a cases,

Although they may have loos inside,

Go over the stone stile to the unmade road and take a right. Take the next left following the footpath sign and straight

Most have been discarded.

To the right across the hill,

Take the wooden stile into a field and follow the path over another wooden stile to where the path takes you over the railway.

When King George and his wife,

Set to come through Shepley town, Excitement in the town was rife,

Follow the path

upwards over a stone stile and to the road.

Just as the path goes into a wooded area take the path to the left into the wood, and follow it keeping to the left path.

At this bridge not long ago, You'd meet a milkman and his float, And his horse so big and slow, That pulled the milk come rain or snow.

Over the railway bridge, and down the slope.

Now our walks come to an end,

'm off to find the newest trend,

My suits will be the best in town,

And I'll sell them all for miles around

Follow the way down the hill and through the archway of trees.

At the crossroads go straight on, keep following the road onwards where it changes into a bridle way.

> At the end of the road, turn left and then immediately right down Lydgate and follow the road down.

Green Moor Seat that you can see, Was sculpted by Dave Bradbury, He used the textile history, As inspiration for the seat. The stone is strong, full of class. It marks the millennium that has passed.

Through the gate at the bottom and past the mill to the road. Turn left at the road.

This mill was known for making vests, Some claimed they were the very best

Veer to the right descending down the

Key

The route

Stone stile

Wood stile

Wood gate

Kissing gate

Tootbridge |

Viewpoint

Follow the path down the hill to the stone squeeze, through a further squeeze and over the hill following the wall.

Turn left at the road and take the second footpath

Shepley

Carr

There used to be a Shepley feast, But sadly now the feast has ceased, The children of the town would sing, And through the streets the song would ring, Then they'd all sit down for tea, Of white teacake and potted meat.

It is a clue to all that see, A badger has been there. The founder of two football teams.

Is buried near to here, it seems, The Reverend Chambers brought to be. Both Liverpool Club and Everton FC.

Can you see upon the fence, There is a sort of hair?

hill with the hedge on your right.

By public transport: hourly trains and regular buses

from Huddersfield, see www.wymetro.com for details. By car: parking at Lea Head, HD8 8EN off A629

How to get there:

A 5 mile tailored walk

Shepley Higgler Hike

Kirkburton Parish Walks

Kirkburton Parish Walks

Shepley Higgler Hike

A 5 mile tailored walk

Supported in partnership by:

'Round here they used to 'Beat the Bounds', A custom where you walked around, And marked the boundaries of the place, To claim all land as Shepley space.

Follow the path through the wooded area keeping to the left. Take the next stone stile. Turn left down the bridleway, and follow it all the way to Marsh Lane.

Here's a place to take in the view, Sit for a while and look about you.

Deep in the depths of the Round Wood They say a cradle lies in the mud, Buried deep, as I am told, For they say the cradle's made of gold.

Now here's a fact to make you think, a Bit of Shepley's in Westminster! Windsor Castle and Buckingham too, It's a type of stone called 'Sovereign Blue'.

In Shepley this fine stone was found, And quarried out from under ground, Amongst the pleasant scenery, Stood the quarry's big machinery. The traction engine, for example, Could, on many people, trample, When it hauled across the crag, A boy would lead with a bright red flag.

Take the road to Cliffe Road, just before you get to the main road.

Cricket

Take a left turn the right down and the next right takes you continue until you back to Lea get to the main road. Notice Cliffe Head Car Park. House on the right

Shepley

Start and finish

At the top of the slope is the war memorial, take the path to the left of the memorial to the stone squeeze into the field. Follow the path up the field and through the hedge and keep following the path up the hill to the houses.

Go through the metal

kissing gate and then

follow the road up through

Just past the corner of the wall take the path up the hill through the wooded area.

From the car park at Lea Head, walk towards the play area and the edge of the football pitch.

follow the wall at

Cliff House you see upon the right, Was built for the brewer's rich young son, Seth Senior in 1829, Borrowed a Sovereign, just the one, And though that's just £1 to us, He built a brewery of success, 'Sovereign Brewery' was its name,

The memorial stands at the top, To ensure the war is not forgot, Erected in 1919

In memory of the war that's been.

Photography - Ian Lumb, Project manager - Michelle Atkinson, Story telling - Ruthie Boycott-Garnett, Sculptor - Dave Bradbury, Graphic design - Kirklees Graphics, Illustration - John McGregor Thanks to past and present Kirkburton Parish councillors and staff for initiating and updating the walks. 2023 Graphic Design - Marshalls Direct the houses to the road. And it brought him fortune, wealth and fame.